What you write goes straight to your site.

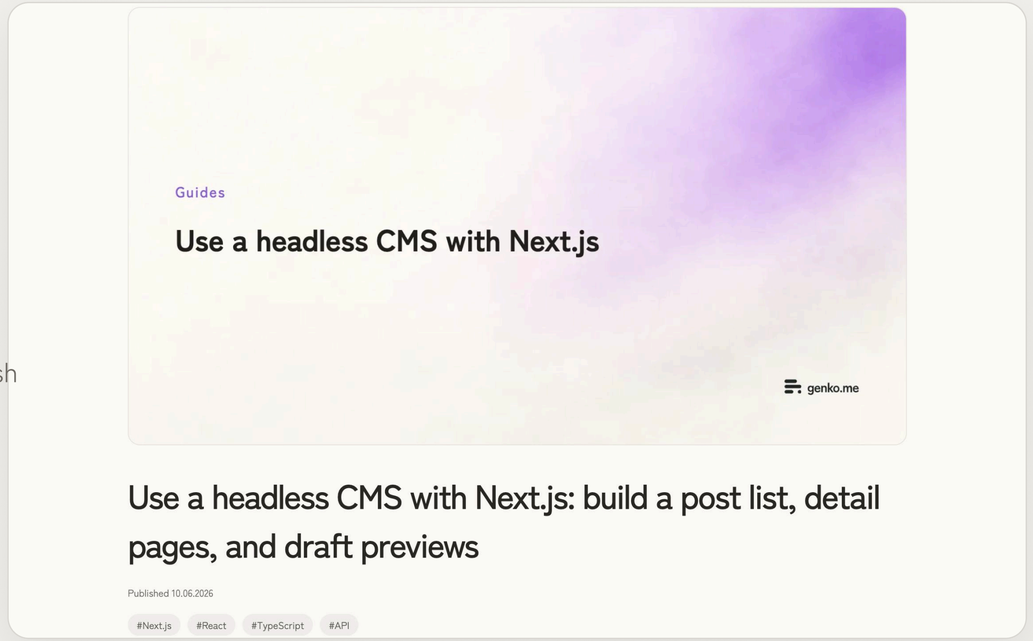

Your site keeps its design. Updating a post needs no code changes.

1 Write in the dashboard

Save and publish

2 It appears on your site

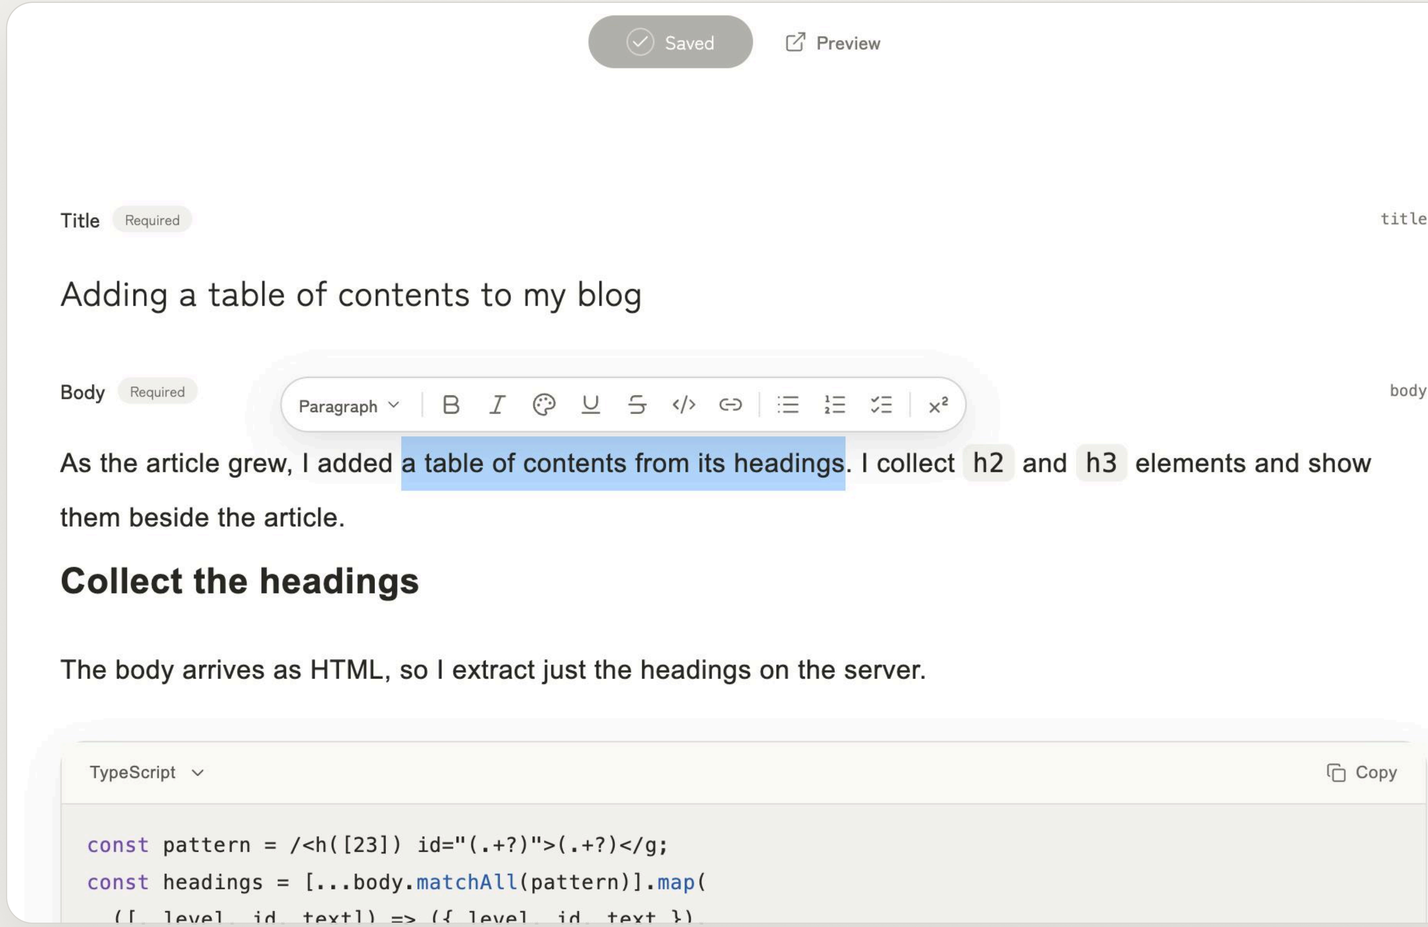

genko.me

A screen that lets you focus on writing.

Select text, and only the formatting you need appears.

- Headings, quotes, code, checklists, footnotes
- Markdown shortcuts format as you type
- Drag images in to place them

Save, then publish.

Publishing is one Save button. Entry settings control status and URL.

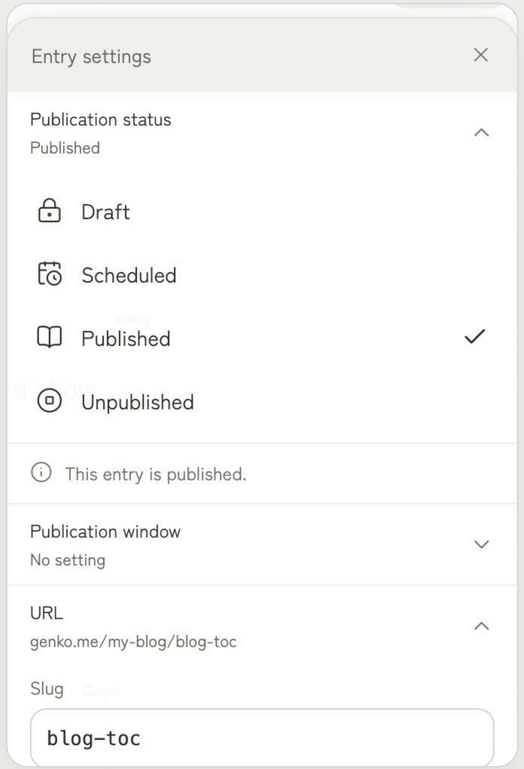

1 Save

Published entries can also be saved as a draft

2 Entry settings

Status, publication window, URL (slug)

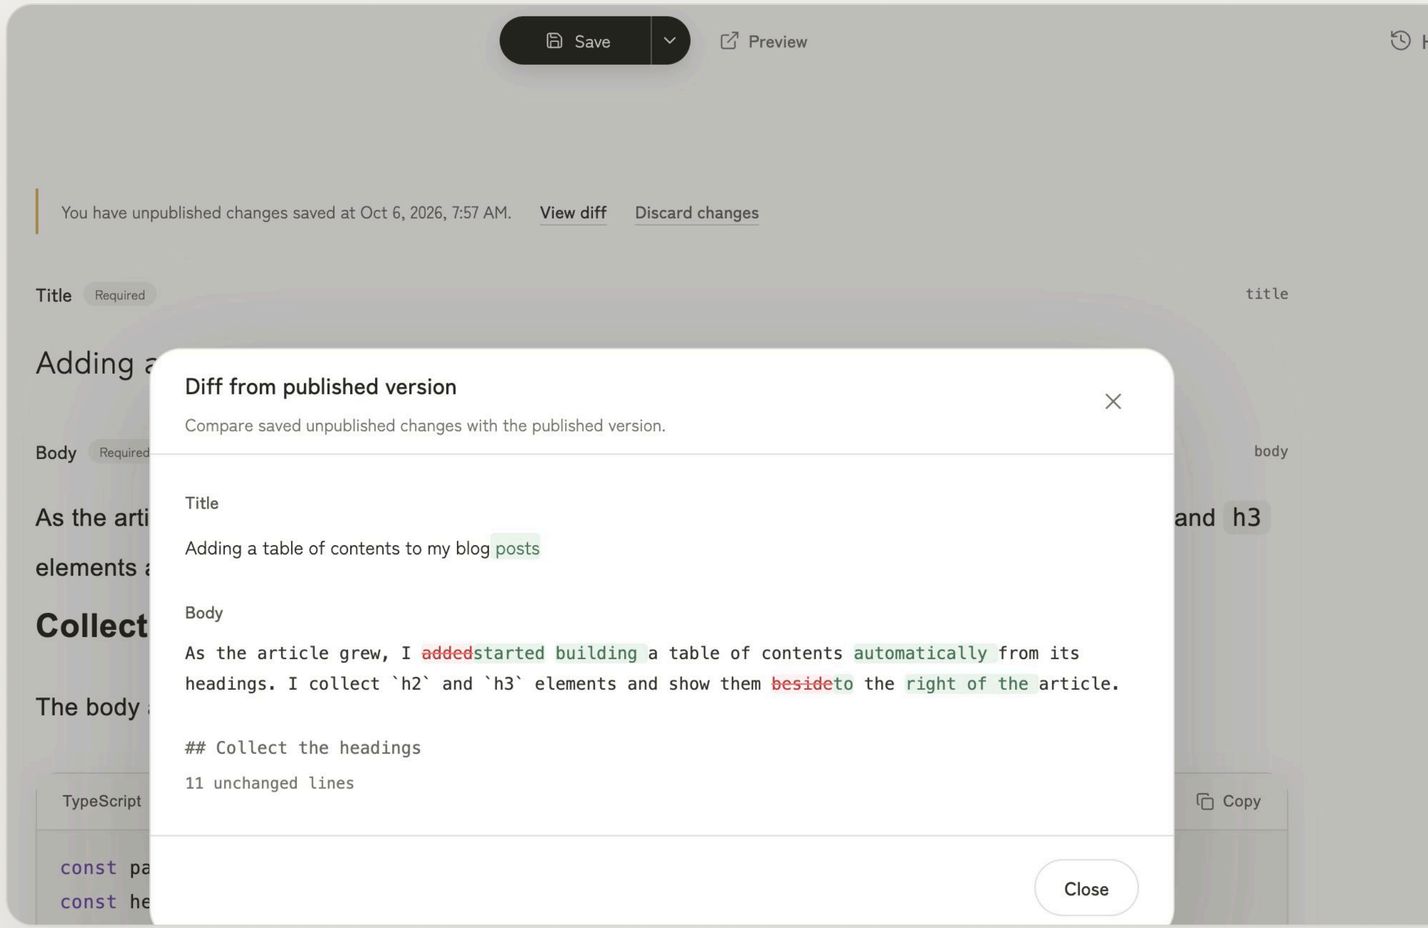

genko.me

Edit published posts with confidence.

Save your edits as a draft.
The published page stays as it is.

- Review the diff against the published version
- Set publish, schedule, and unpublish times

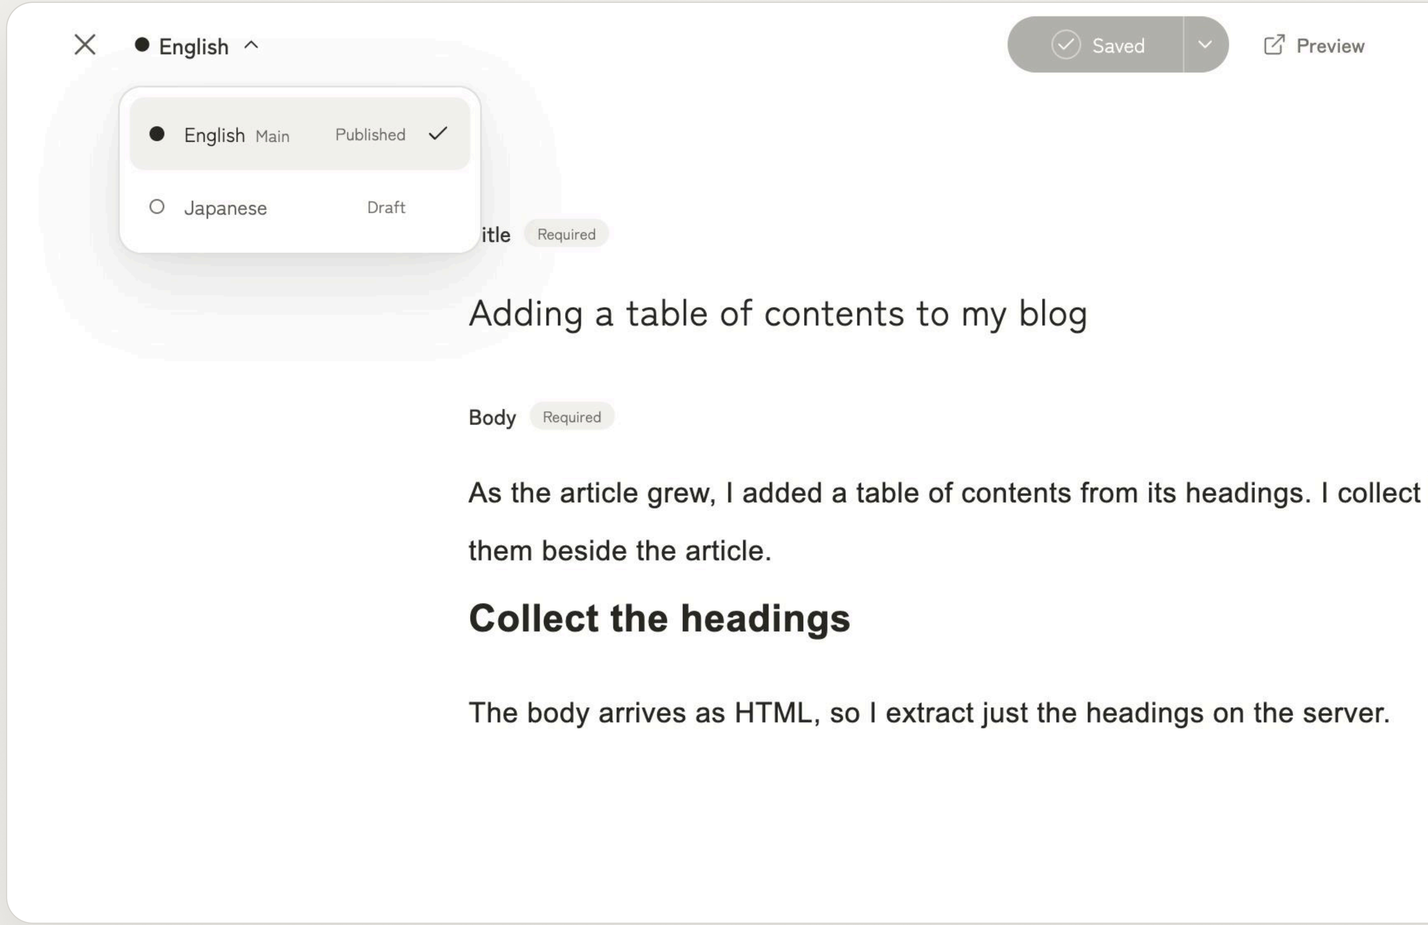

genko.me

One entry, in every language.

Create a Japanese version from an English entry, then publish each language on its own.

- Start a translation from a copy of the main language
- Publish and schedule each language separately
- See each language's status in the entry list

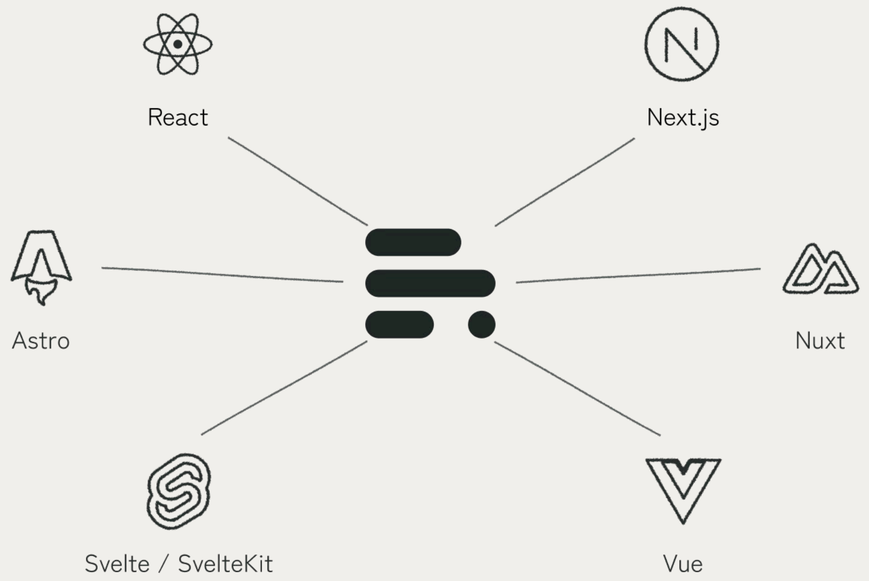

genko.me

Connect to the site you already have.

Works with the frameworks you already use.
Drop in the ready-made components to show your posts.

- Next.js, Astro, Vue, and more, as you build today
- Read content from PHP, Ruby, and Go sites too
- Ask AI assistants like Claude to draft for you
